PREFACE

After years of search and preparation the historical committee has decided to offer its report. The task has been one of arduous labor and care. We regret that we have been unable to secure more complete records, but thought better to give this than try your patience by further delay.

The History and Genealogy of the Hawkins family :

For we are the same our fathers have been,
We see the same sights our fathers have seen,
We drink of the same stream and view the same scene
And run the same course our fathers have run.

—William Knox.

To the decendants of the Hawkins family for whose pleasure and encouragements the historians have sincerely worked this book is especially dedicated. Those who read it may wonder how it ever came to be written.

In 1885 a reunion was held at the home of William Hawkins, Newton Falls, Ohio. This meeting was so much enjoyed, and some wished to know more of former relationship that it was decided to meet annually, and has been held for 42 years. The first president was John Hawkins of New Lisbon, Ohio, and secretary was Dr. J. M. Carter of New Waterford, Ohio. At first it was held at the homes, but soon became so large that it was decided to hold it in some park or grove.

These reunions did much toward interesting the members to know more about their ancestors in past history. The writers of this book claim no special fitness for this work, except a fair share of patience and perseverance that has upheld them for years of research through family records.

This volume is incomplete, had it been undertaken many years ago it might have been more nearly correct. We want to thank the many who cheerfully answered all letters of inquiry and all who assisted in any way.

Therefore let us run with patience the race set before us, that when our work is finished it may be said that the world was made happier and better for this family having lived in it.

Introduction

The first part of the book is devoted to the study of the structure of the group  $GL_n(\mathbb{Z})$  and its action on the space of lattices in  $\mathbb{R}^n$ . The second part is devoted to the study of the structure of the group  $GL_n(\mathbb{Z})$  and its action on the space of lattices in  $\mathbb{R}^n$ .

The third part is devoted to the study of the structure of the group  $GL_n(\mathbb{Z})$  and its action on the space of lattices in  $\mathbb{R}^n$ .

The fourth part is devoted to the study of the structure of the group  $GL_n(\mathbb{Z})$  and its action on the space of lattices in  $\mathbb{R}^n$ .

HISTORY OF THE HAWKINS FAMILY, FROM 1695

Robert Hawkins, born in Lancashire County, England, in 1695, came to America in 1715, and 1716 bought a tract of land of one hundred acres of John Miles, of Baltimore county, Md., called "Margarets Mount," situated about eight miles from Havre de Grace, Md., and near the waters of Deer Creek, in what was then Baltimore (now Harford) county, Md., in 1730 he bought another body of about 400 acres adjoining the first, of a man named Wells. He was married to Lydia Cruchet, of Anne Arundel County, Md., in 1739, and continued to live on his estate to the extreme age of nearly one hundred and six years, his death occurring November 5, 1801; his will being made April 1, 1796, and approved November 11, 1801. His wife Lydia died about 1805, aged eighty-five years.

Robert Hawkins was strongly opposed to England's unjust and arbitrary control of the American Colonies, and prior to the Revolution, ardently advocated a separation from the Mother Country. The writer has authentic information that during the war he gave over £2,000 sterling to the support of the American armies, and sent his three sons into the service to battle for the cause of freedom, his second son, Robert, Jr., dying in Washington's memorable camp at Valley Forge; the other sons, Thomas and Richard, remained in service until the close of the war.

Robert and Lydia Hawkins had three sons (but no daughters), viz: Thomas, born in 1741; Robert, born in 1745, and Richard, born in 1748. Robert, the second son, died while in the American army, as above referred to, was a sergeant in the Maryland line; and left a widow, Elizabeth (Maiden surname unknown to writer), and one son, also named Robert, who was born December 14, 1773. He inherited from his grandfather, Robert, the remainder of the latter's landed estate by will approved November 11, 1801, which was in part as follows, to-wit: "I will and bequeath to my wife Lydia all my remaining landed estate during her natural life, and then to go to my Grandson Robert, son of Robert, Jr., deceased, and to his heirs and assigns forever; my sons, Thomas and Richard being provided for, etc." The third Robert Hawkins' wife was named Ann (maiden surname unknown to writer), was born in 1777, and died November 28, 1862. Robert lived on his farm in Harford county, Md., until his death, March 7, 1847, leaving his estate by will to his children.

The children of Robert and Ann Hawkins were Elizabeth, Mary, John, William and George. Of these, Elizabeth married David Silvers; she died November 13, 1853. Their home was in Harford county, Md., Mary married John W. Hawkins, a second cousin, of Columbiana county, Ohio; both are still living. John lived on part of the original tract in Harford county, Md., and died about 1880. William, born September 11, 1799, lived on a farm near the old home (his wife's name unknown to writer); he died September 25, 1889. His children were three sons: John S., born December 22, 1841, William A., born March 5, 1843, and Albert T., born March 24, 1847, all lived near Churchville, Harford county, Md., John S. and William A. served in the Federal army during the late Rebellion, as members of the Sixth Maryland Infantry. George, born March 11, 1809, died in South America (date unknown to writer).

Richard, the third son of Robert and Lydia Hawkins, was born in Harford county, Md., in 1748, and lived on part of the original farm deeded to him by his father June 10, 1777. He served in the American army from 1778 until the close of the war with England. The date of his death is unknown to writer. He was married twice; his first wife was Elizabeth Cox, who died a few years after her marriage. By this marriage he had one child, a daughter named Elizabeth, who married Gregory Barnes, of Harford county, Md., where they resided. Elizabeth Barnes died in 1859. They had twelve children, of whom only four survive, viz.: Mary, Hosea, James, and Robert A. Mary married a Mr. Bailey; she was a widow living with her family near the old Hawkins homestead in Maryland, Hosea also lived near; James lived in Mahoning county, Ohio, and Robert A. was a resident of Columbiana county, Ohio.

Richard Hawkins' second wife was Avarilla Durbin (the date of her birth and death is unknown to writer), their children were: Robert, Thomas, Casandra, Lydia, Hosea, Richard, John, Nancy and William.

Robert moved to Beallsville, Washington county, Penn., and married Ruth, a daughter of his Uncle Thomas Hawkins; he lived on a farm and preached for a congregation of the Christian Church, of which he was a member; he died May 26, 1851, much lamented by the community. His wife Ruth died April 15, 1843. Thomas settled near New Lisbon, Columbiana county, Ohio; married Catherine Mosier, was a wealthy land-owner, and lived to an advanced age; he has many descendants living in Columbiana, Stark and Trumbull counties, Ohio. Casandra married Edward Courtney; both are now dead; they lived in Stark county, Ohio. Lydia was married to three husbands — Vandegrift, Gallion and Barbour — and survived them all; they lived in Columbiana county, Ohio; she is now dead, but left descendants who live in different parts of the west. Hosea moved to Ohio, married, and his children and grandchildren still live in Stark and neighboring counties of Ohio.

The first part of the report is devoted to a general description of the country and its resources. It is followed by a detailed account of the various industries and occupations of the

Richard also moved to Ohio; married Ann Touchstone; he is now dead; a large number of his descendants still live in Ohio and other Western states. John and Nancy, remained in Maryland; John married Mary Vandegrift, but the writer has no further knowledge of his family. Nancy married George Smith, of Harford county, Md., and lived near Churchville; both are now dead, she being ninety-eight years old at decease; three of her children, viz.: Samuel, George and Cassie M. resided near the old homestead; another son, Robert, lives in Virginia, and William, a minister, is in Tuscarawas county, Ohio; other of her children left descendants. William died when a boy, brother of Nancy.

Thomas Hawkins, the eldest son of Robert and Lydia Hawkins, was born in 1741, in Harford county, Md., was married in 1763 to Sarah Hargrove, of Kent county, Md., she was born in 1747. Thomas lived on part of his father's farm. In 1777 he joined the American army as a "sergeant of the Maryland line," and remained in the army until autumn of 1781, attaining the rank of lieutenant. During the winter of 1781 he bought of William Wilson, of Harford county, Md., a tomahawk right to a tract of land of two hundred and twenty acres on the west side of the Monongahela river, now in the borough of Beallsville, Washington county, Penn. In the spring of 1782 he removed with his family to this western Pennsylvania wilderness, to found for himself and children a new home; and here surrounded by the original forest, and amid the vicissitudes and climatic changes of a newly settled country, contending for supremacy with the wild beasts, and subject to incursions from marauding bands of Indians, he built his cabin; and in the future saw his sons and daughters enjoy the comforts he was so anxious to secure. The State of Pennsylvania granted Letters Patent to Thomas Hawkins for this tract of land called "Smithfield," and of the original tract the ownership to one hundred and eighty-two acres has never changed in name, being owned by A. L. Hawkins, a great-grandson. Thomas Hawkins died May 15, 1826; his wife Sarah died April 15, 1827, and the remains of both lie in the family graveyard on the farm. The children of Thomas and Sarah Hawkins were: Absalom, Richard, Lydia, Elizabeth, Mary, Sarah, William, Thomas, Ruth and Ann.

Absalom Hawkins was born July 21, 1765; married Elizabeth Crawford, daughter of James Crawford, of Fayette county, Penn.; Elizabeth was born in 1779; Absalom lived on the National pike, near Hillsboro in Washington county, Penn., owned a large tract of valuable land, kept an old time tavern, and owned a number of slaves. His children were John, Cynthia and Matilda. John and Cynthia both died unmarried; Matilda married John Cooper and a daughter was born to them, named Sarah J. The husband John Cooper having died, Matilda married Thomas Howden, and both are now dead. Sarah J. Cooper married a Mr. Bently who is now dead; she lived near Monongahela, Washington county, Penn. Absalom Hawkins died July 6, 1839. Elizabeth, his wife died March 19, 1824. Lydia, daughter of Thomas and Sarah Hawkins, born March 2, 1773, married Joseph Fowler, of Washington county, Penn.; her children were William and Thomas H. The writer has no knowledge of William. Thomas H. was a physician, and practiced for many years at Beallsville, Penn.; was prominent in his profession; removed to Illinois in advanced years, and died there. Lydia Hawkins Fowler died at Cadiz, Ohio, (date unknown to writer). Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas and Sarah Hawkins, born February 23, 1775, married Alexander McCoy, and moved to a farm near New Lisbon, Ohio. Both are now dead, (no dates). Their children were: Thomas, Absalom, Ruth, Sarah, Matilda, Eliza, Mary, and a daughter whose name is unknown to the writer.

Mary, a daughter of Thomas and Sarah Hawkins, born November 25, 1776, died April 28, 1791. Sarah, a daughter of Thomas and Sarah Hawkins, born February 26, 1779, died March 9, 1779. William, son of Thomas and Sarah Hawkins, born November 23, 1780, was married to Ann Mosier, who was born in 1784. He lived on a farm adjoining the old homestead now in the borough of Beallsville, Penn.; was very successful in breeding fine sheep, and was a highly respected citizen; owned a large body of fine land; some years after the death of his father owning the old homestead. His children were: John, Susan, Sarah, Mary, Catharine, Rebecca J., and Eliza, William Hawkins died February 8, 1853; his wife, Ann, died December 31, 1876. Thomas, son of Thomas and Sarah Hawkins, born October 14, 1784, was married to Mary Mosier, who was born in 1794. He owned one hundred acres of the old homestead bequeathed to him by his father. In 1833 he sold this land to his brother William, and moved to Columbiana county, Ohio, where he resided until his death, February 5, 1868; his wife, Mary, died September 26, 1885. His children were: William, Noah, John, Richard, Jonathan, Thomas, Samuel, James, Mary Ann and George.

Ruth, daughter of Thomas and Sarah Hawkins, born July 6, 1789, married Rev. Robert Hawkins; they lived in Beallsville, Penn.; and he was a minister of the Christian denomination, was highly respected, and did much good in the community. He died May 26, 1851; his wife Ruth died April 15, 1843. Their children were: Thomas, William, Elijah, Gideon, Louisa, Mary, Richard, Avarilla, Elizabeth and Robert. Ann, daughter of Thomas and Sarah Hawkins, died when a child, caused by a fall from a swing (date of birth and death unknown), Richard, the second son of Thomas and Sarah Hawkins, was born August 25, 1770, and died February 6, 1856; he married on May 12, 1803, Cynthia, a daughter of James and Sarah Crawford, of Jefferson county, Ohio; his wife, Cynthia, was born February 8, 1786, and died July 16, 1845. Born in Harford county, Md., he at the age of twelve years accompanied his father and family to the new home at Beallsville, Penn., and worked on the farm until his marriage, when he bought of his father one hundred acres of his farm, and remained there until the spring of 1814, when, selling his land to his brother William, he bought a farm of 415 acres on the North fork of Ten-Mile creek in Green county, Penn., about two miles from its junction with the South Fork at Clarksville, Penn. He lived a peaceful yet active life until old grew on, when he relinquished the cares of his farm to his sons, and spent the last years of his life in quiet enjoyment. The children of Richard and Cynthia Hawkins, were: Absalom, Elizabeth, James C., Matilda, Sarah, Richard C., Mary A., Cassandra, Thomas H., William H., John C., and an unnamed infant daughter.

Absalom, son of Richard and Cynthia Hawkins, was born March 4, 1805, and died July 1, 1871; married Lydia Nyswaner September 22, 1826, who died in 1827, leaving an infant daughter named Lydia A., who was born June 16, 1827. She married Rev. A. H. Deaves, and died June 16, 1850, without children. Absalom Hawkins married Sarah Hawkins (second wife) July 26, 1806, and died December 29, 1892, without children. After his second marriage he bought, of William Hawkins, the Hawkins homestead, at Beallsville, Penn., and lived on it until his death. He erected the commodious buildings now on the farm, which were occupied by his widow until her death. Elizabeth, daughter of Richard and Cynthia Hawkins, born April 8, 1807, died January 27, 1859; married to Nelson Greenfield, who was born February 15, 1832, and died August 4, 1865. Three children were born of this marriage, viz.: Crawford, Sarah A. and Cynthia H. Crawford, born February 24, 1833, died July 15, 1834; Sarah A., born April 29, 1834, died September 4, 1891, (she married Valentine Crumrine, and left a family of four children); Cynthia H., born March 17, 1845, was married to A. L. Hawkins, February 4, 1869.

Matilda, daughter of Richard and Cynthia Hawkins, born May 5, 1810, died April 15, 1886; married to Isaac Stull, a farmer of East Bethlehem township, Washington county, Penn., who died December 26, 1889. Eight children of this family were living. Sarah, daughter of Richard and Cynthia Hawkins, born November 1, 1811, died September 1, 1883; married James S. Crawford, a farmer near Beallsville, Penn., who died April 3, 1869. Three children of this family were living: one son, Edwin E., died at Nashville, Tenn., February 12, 1863, a member of Company K, Fifteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry.

Richard C., a son of Richard and Cynthia Hawkins, born November 11, 1814, married Emeline, daughter of Fredrick and Elizabeth Wise, November 25, 1841; his wife was born November 28, 1820; he was a farmer and lived near Jefferson, Green county, Penn.; they have a family of seven living children, all married. Mary A., daughter of Richard and Cynthia Hawkins, born March 17, 1817, died August 9, 1884, unmarried. Casandra, daughter of Richard and Cynthia Hawkins, born January 17, 1819, died May 17, 1841; married to Stephen Ulery. One son, Henry H., was born May 1, 1841; he was drowned August 21, 1850. Thomas H., son of Richard and Cynthia Hawkins, born January 11, 1821; died January 25, 1892; married Emily Parshall; he lived on a farm near Fredricktown, Penn. From this marriage nine children were born.

William H., son of Richard and Cynthia Hawkins, born August 10, 1823; died October 27, 1885; unmarried. John C., son of Richard and Cynthia Hawkins, born December 15, 1825; married Lizzie McMurray, June 8, 1882; no children, both were living, he owning his father's farm in Morgan township, Green county, Penn. James C., a son of Richard and Cynthia Hawkins, born October 8, 1808; died January 15, 1891; married to Margaret, daughter of Fredrick and Elizabeth Wise, March 24, 1836. Margaret (Wise) Hawkins was born October 2, 1818; and died January 15, 1892. James C., was born on the old Hawkins' homestead, near Beallsville, Penn., remained there with his parents until 1814, and with them moved to the new home on Ten-Mile creek. He received a good common-school education, and some additional training in a select school at Beallsville, Penna. Until 1835 he followed teaching and farm work, and then purchased a farm in East Bethlehem township, Washington county, Penn., known as the "Montgomery Patent," lying on the waters of North Ten-Mile creek, immediately adjoining the farm of his father. Soon after his marriage, in 1836, he moved on his farm, and carried on farming, sheep breeding, and the carding of wool and fulling of cloth. For several years he owned a general store in Clarksville, Penn., and bought wool for the general market for a number of years. He was successful in business, and retired in 1881 from active life (his sons assuming his business cares), and moved to a home opposite Clarksville, Penn., spending his declining years in quiet comfort. He and his wife were for many years members of the Baptist Church; in 1849 he built a church on his farm, and gave it a willing support, leaving by his will a generous annuity to its pastor. He was benevolent, a promotor of public enterprise, and many will remember his acts of charity. The children of James C. and Margaret Hawkins were as follows: Emeline W., Absalom W. H., Cynthia A., Alexander L., Elizabeth W., James R. and William N. Emeline W., daughter of James C. and Margaret Hawkins, was born May 3, 1837; died August 24, 1864; was married to Jackson L. Thompson June 26, 1862; and two daughters were born to them, named Eldora and Ida, both of whom died in infancy. Absalom W. II., son of James C. and Margaret Hawkins, born January 22, 1839; died November 10, 1876; unmarried; he was graduated from Jefferson College, Canonsburg, Penn., in the class of 1858, read medicine, graduating at the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia, in the spring of 1861; was appointed by President Lincoln as an assistant surgeon of the U. S. navy in May of 1861; in 1863 he was promoted past assistant, and in 1864 full surgeon; he was a ripe scholar, speaking and writing fluently, in addition to the English, the French, German and Spanish languages. On account of failing health he resigned from the navy in 1866, and was killed by the cars at Mansfield, Ohio. Cynthia A., daughter of James C. and Margaret Hawkins, born October 7, 1841; unmarried, and since the death of her parents had been living with her brother, A. L. Hawkins. (A sketch of Alexander L. Hawkins, (the next in order by birth), son of James C. and Margaret Hawkins, appears further on.) Elizabeth W., daughter of James C. and Margaret Hawkins, born October 10, 1847; was married to John C. Sargent October 7, 1875, and died July 26, 1877, leaving a son, Harry H., James R., son of James C. and Margaret Hawkins, born October 3, 1852; was married to Decema Addleman, February 28, 1878; and had four children; he lived on a farm in West Bethlehem township, Washington county, Penn., and was engaged in breeding horses. William N., son of James C. and Margaret Hawkins, born July 14, 1855; was married to Mary Ada Farquhar, February 16, 1881; who died February 26, 1893; leaving five children. William N. owned and lived on the old farm of his fathers, on Ten-Mile creek, Washington county, Penn., he was extensively engaged in breeding fine draft horses.

Col. Alexander L. Hawkins, the subject proper of this memoir, was born Sept. 6, 1843; he was educated at George's Creek Academy and Waynsburg College, after which he taught school two terms. On August 7, 1862, he enlisted in Company K, Fifteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, filling the various grades of non-commissioned officer until the spring of 1864, when he was promoted to first lieutenant; in the spring of 1865 he was commissioned captain, and mustered out of service January 21, 1866.

He participated in the battle of Antietam, Md., and his regiment then being transferred to the "Army of the Cumberland," he was with that organization in its various engagements from "Stone River," until the close of the war. After hostilities ceased, he served on the staff of Maj. Gen. Clinton B. Fisk until mustered out. In the fall of 1866 he went into the drug business in Pittsburgh, Penn., continuing for two years, when he sold out his store, was married and moved on a farm in East Bethlehem township, Washington Co., Penn. He was elected treasurer of his county in 1875, served as such during 1876, 1877 and 1878, and then returned to the farm. On January 1, 1877, Capt. Hawkins entered the National Guards of Pennsylvania as captain of Company H, Tenth Regiment; was with his company during the riots at Pittsburgh, Penn., in 1877; on February 27, 1879, he was elected colonel of the regiment; re-elected February 27, 1884, and re-elected February 27, 1889, and is still in command, being now the senior colonel in the state. He was with his regiment under the call of the governor of Pennsylvania for three weeks in April of 1891, during the labor strike in the coke regions of western Pennsylvania; was in command of a Provisional Brigade for a month during the strike of steel workers at Homestead, Penn., in July and August of 1892.

Further particulars in reference to Company A, 10th Infantry, N. G. P., Col. Alexander Hawkins, commanding the regiment, died on board the transport, "Senator," at sea on the 18th of July. From that time until the end of the voyage the ship's flag was carried at half mast, a mute signal that conveyed to the waiting populace in the Bay of San Francisco the bereavement the regiment had undergone in the death of its beloved commanding officer.

On the 22nd, a special train of three sections carried the regiment back to Pennsylvania, the first welcome of the Keystone State being extended at New Brighton. In the afternoon the regiment reached Pittsburgh, where a royal welcome was accorded to the command, President McKinley being present to grace the occasion, and delivering one of the noted addresses of his administrations on the occasion.

The children of A. L. and Cynthia H. Hawkins are: Clyde E., Jessie B. and Frank B. Of these, Clyde E., born November 16, 1869, entered Washington and Jefferson College, leaving at the close of sophomore year in spring of 1891; was admitted as a cadet to the Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., June 1, 1891, by appointment of the Secretary of War, on the recommendation of Hon. J. W. Ray, member of Congress from the Twenty fourth District of Pennsylvania.

Jessie B., born June 29, 1871, attended Beaver College, at Beaver, Penn., for one year; entered the sophomore class of the Western Female Seminary, Oxford, Ohio, in September, 1890, and was in the class to graduate June 8, 1893.

Frank B., born July 14, 1874, was in the freshman class of Washington and Jefferson College.

While none of the Hawkins family have attained distinction, it is a matter of pride that from Robert, the founder of the family in America, through the generations to the present, they have been quiet, law-abiding, patriotic citizens, and loyal to their country.

William Hawkins, (as assignee of Robert McKain, who must therefore have been an earlier settler here), received a Virginia certificate for four hundred acres of land on the Dutch Fork of Buffalo. The certificate bears date of Feb. 17, 1780, and it was surveyed to Hawkins, in the July next following. On this tract William Hawkins, built his cabin home, on the south side of the route of the later National road, at or near the foot of the hill which has since been known as Hawkins' Hill. The land on which the Hawkins home stood is or was recently owned by John Connor. The old Hawkins cabin was demolished, and the logs from it were used to build a stable on the opposite side of the National road. William Hawkins did not long occupy and enjoy the farm obtained on the Virginia certificate as above mentioned. In September, 1781, the Indians made an incursion, attacking the house of Jonathan Link, on Middle Wheeling Creek, and taking prisoners the inmates (except Jacob Fisher and Frank Hupp, whom they killed) proceeded to the Hawkins cabin, where they captured Miss Elizabeth Hawkins, daughter of William Hawkins, who had himself already been taken prisoner by the same party at the house of Persley Peak (or Peck) on the Dutch Fork. Mrs. Hawkins, the wife of William and mother of Elizabeth, avoided capture by hiding (with an infant in her arms) in the bushy top of a fallen tree near their cabin. On their journey west the Indians barbarously murdered Link and William Hawkins. His daughter Elizabeth became the wife of a Shawanese chief, and though she afterwards revisited the settlements, and could have remained had she so elected, chose to return to live among the savages, and did so. Jacob Miller, who was captured with Link and William Hawkins, made his escape from the Indians, and returned to his friends on the Dutch Fork of Buffalo.

Thomas Hawkins was an Englishman by birth, who emigrated from his native land to America at a very early date. His first settlement was made in the State of Maryland, but he soon removed from there to a point near Beallsville, locating upon the property now occupied by Mrs. Sarah Hawkins. Mr. Hawkins married a daughter of James Crawford, who owned and operated the ferry at the mouth of Fish Pot Run. They had a family of eight children. Absalom Hawkins was the oldest son. He owned a number of slaves, and from 1803 to 1820, or later, kept a tavern upon the property now owned by Edward Taylor. He owned the Stephen Hill and the Gen. Crooks farm, and also owned six or seven hundred acres of land in West Bethlehem township, on the National road between Hillsborough and Beallsville. The road runs through the farm he then possessed. Absalom Hawkins died on the old Pusey farm, in this township.

Richard Hawkins, the second son of Thomas Hawkins, settled on that part of his father's tract that was in the possession of Col. Alexander Hawkins. In 1813 he purchased four hundred and fifteen acres of land of Thomas Hill, which was located in Green County, upon which he lived the remainder of his days. That property was owned by his sons, William and John Hawkins. Another of his sons, James C. Hawkins, has a farm of three hundred and forty-five acres, called "Sycamore Grove." It is situated in East Bethlehem township, on Ten-Mile Creek, about two and one half miles from the river and was first owned by William Montgomery, who warranted it. Mr. Montgomery became involved and sold the place to Evan McCullough, of Green County, of whom Mr. Hawkins obtained it, making the purchase in the year 1833. There was a mill built upon the run, which was first operated by Mr. Montgomery, and also by each successive owner of the property, Mr. Hawkins continued it until 1875. In 1843, at the time he bought it, he put in three carding machines, a picker, and a fulling mill, and these controlled a large custom for twelve miles in each direction. In 1870 the carding and fulling mill was discontinued, the machinery being sold to Morgan Wise, and taken by him to Waynesburg, to use in the establishment known as the Hook Mill. A saw mill had been put in operation where the fulling mill was run, a new dam having been built to supply the water-power. Of the three dams that have been built at this place, two have been the work of Mr. Hawkins. Besides the other investments and business interests of the Hawkins family, they have nearly all been extensively engaged in wool growing and sheep raising.

William Hawkins was the third son of Thomas Hawkins, the early settler. He lived and died upon a farm adjoining that of his father, and Mr. Patterson, a grandson of his owned and occupies the property.

Thomas Hawkins, Jr., was the youngest son of Thomas Hawkins, Sr. He owned and lived upon a part of the homestead for a while, but in 1850, removed to Stark County, Ohio, where he resided the rest of his life.

The above is copied from Pages, 766.

S. R. Hawkins, late commissioner of Washington County, was born and reared in Somerset township, upon the farm where he now resides. His grandfather, William Hawkins, one of the most prosperous of Washington county's early-day farmers, married Nancy Mosier. They had but one son who grew to manhood, John Hawkins, father of S. R. Hawkins. John was twice married first to Sarah A. Young, by whom he had three children, William, S. R., and Henry, all living. After the death of his first wife, John Hawkins married Susan Farmer, by whom he had six children, four of whom are living. He died April 17, 1880. His second wife died a few years previous to that date.

S. R. Hawkins, who is a thrifty farmer in the prime of life, obtained his education in the common schools, and learned the business of farming with his father. When he became of age he settled upon a farm not far from his present home, and which he still owns, and where he and his wife, whose maiden name was Josephine Richardson, lived until his father's death, when they moved to the old homestead. They have no children. Mr. Hawkins is a member of the Methodist Church of Beallsville. In politics he and the numerous Hawkins family are distinctively Republicans. He has been elected to important township offices by his party, and was one of the Republican county commissioners for three years, his term expiring with the year 1881.

FAMILY RECORD OF ROBERT AND RUTH HAWKINS

Robert Hawkins, the subject of this sketch, is but one of so many of the name in the family that he can best be distinguished as the grandson of the original Robert Hawkins, who came to this country from England at the age of 20 years in 1715. The elder Robert settled in the vicinity of Baltimore where he died in 1801 at the ripe old age of 106 years.

He led a full and vigorous life, accumulated property and a deep devotion for the country which had given him home and prosperity.

The first of these is the fact that the population of the state has increased from 1,000,000 in 1800 to 4,500,000 in 1890. This increase has been the result of a number of causes, the most important of which are the following:

1. The immigration of foreign-born persons into the state. This has been the most important cause of the increase in population, and has been especially true of the last thirty years. The number of foreign-born persons in the state in 1890 was 1,500,000, or one-third of the total population. This number has increased from 500,000 in 1850 to 1,000,000 in 1880, and is expected to reach 2,000,000 in 1900.

2. The increase in the birth rate. This has also been an important cause of the increase in population, and has been especially true of the last thirty years. The number of children born in the state in 1890 was 1,000,000, or one-fifth of the total population. This number has increased from 500,000 in 1850 to 1,000,000 in 1880, and is expected to reach 2,000,000 in 1900.

The second of these is the fact that the population of the state has increased from 1,000,000 in 1800 to 4,500,000 in 1890. This increase has been the result of a number of causes, the most important of which are the following:

FAMILY RECORDS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK
The first of these is the fact that the population of the state has increased from 1,000,000 in 1800 to 4,500,000 in 1890. This increase has been the result of a number of causes, the most important of which are the following:

In consequence during the war of the Revolution he gave liberally of his means to the government and saw his three sons, Robert Jr., Thomas, and Richard, shoulder arms in its defense.

Robert died at Valley Forge and Thomas and Richard continued through to the victorious end of the memorable conflict. Of the two survivors Richard was the father of the subject of this sketch and Thomas was the father of his wife, Ruth. Robert married his first cousin.

This Robert, the grandson of the original Robert, the son of Richard, was born May 29, 1778, and his wife, Ruth, ten years later. Their first son, Richard, was born in 1806, slightly less than two years following the marriage. He lived to be but three years of age. In all there was a family of 12 children of whom nine grew to maturity.

Robert Hawkins, like his forbears, was a hard-working and prosperous man. He was a God-fearing man, a minister of the Christian church. He left his family an honored and honorable name as well as generous portions of this world's goods as measured in the money terms of his day.

He passed the greater portion of his life in Washington county, Penn., where he settled as a youth when his father came up from their early home in Maryland.

He was a farmer and stock raiser by occupation, but devoted much time to Bible study and spiritual contemplation making it natural that the ministry should become an avocation with him in later years.

It is related that he spoke with great earnestness. Well founded tradition is that once upon a time during his devotions like Martin Luther he encountered the Devil and as in the case of the great reformer of the Middle Ages his Satanic majesty was obliged to leave the field to his spiritual adversary.

The greater portion of his life was passed on the old Hawkins homestead near Beallsville, Washington county, Penn. It was there that he died somewhat tragically, following a second marriage, in May 1851. His wife, Ruth, had passed away seven years earlier.

His home always represented the best standards and traditions of his time. He was always interested in seeing his family enjoy the comforts and conveniences of his time and they always lived in great bounty. One of his children relates that he usually had about him a large amount of silver, ready to meet the needs of his own or the proper demands of the community.

England as well as on the young America. The historic priory of Warwick, England, which is being transplanted to Virginia to be the home of the Virginia Historical society, a massive structure of great architectural beauty, was completed in 1565 by a Thomas Hawkins, a trusted retainer of the Duke of Northumberland. That Thomas Hawkins was known as "The Fisher."

The surname and the Christian name of this Thomas, his character and achievements, combine to make one think of him as one of the progenitors of the Hawkins family of old England from which our own line of Roberts, Thomases et al, sprang.

The lineal connection is not yet proven but its assumption seems warranted. It was of such rugged character that the family sprung and its members lost none of their moral and spiritual vigor when transplanted to their new home in America.

Sons and daughters (12) of Robert and Ruth Hawkins:

Richard Hawkins was born November 15, 1806, and died December 2, 1809.

Thomas Hawkins, born April 2, 1809, married December 13, 1836, and died December 25, 1881.

Sarah Hawkins, born May 5, 1811, and died April 17, 1812.

Elizabeth Hawkins, born July 10, 1813, married November 19, 1834, and died December 3, 1896.

Elijah Hawkins, born September 17, 1815, married August 30, 1838, and died September 17, 1906.

Lydia Ann Hawkins, born August 10, 1817, married November 3, 1839, died ———.

William Hawkins, born August 1, 1819, married November 3, 1842, died ———.

Mary Hawkins, born February 3, 1822, married October 4, 1846, and died March 28, 1904.

Robert Hawkins, born January 27, 1824, married October 16, 1845, died ———.

Louisa Hawkins, born April 16, 1826, married July 1, 1847, and died July 2, 1908.

Gideon Hawkins, born August 1, 1828, married November 14, 1850, and died July 2, 1863.

Avarilla Hawkins, born August 10, 1831, and died March 14, 1842.

Louisa Hawkins, married Joseph Weaver of Beallsville, Washington county, Penn., July 1, 1847. They resided in Washington county for some years and from there moved to Mahoning county, Ohio, in 1862, where they resided until their death.

Sons and daughters (8) of Joseph and Louisa (Hawkins) Weaver:

The first part of the paper discusses the general theory of the firm, focusing on the role of capital structure and the trade-off between debt and equity. It examines how the firm's investment opportunities and growth prospects influence its financing decisions. The second part of the paper applies this theory to the case of leveraged buyouts (LBOs), where the firm is typically taken private and its capital structure is significantly increased. The paper argues that the high debt levels in LBOs are justified by the increased cash flows and reduced agency costs that result from the change in ownership.

The third part of the paper discusses the implications of the theory for the design of debt contracts. It shows that the firm's investment opportunities and growth prospects are crucial in determining the optimal debt structure. For example, firms with high growth opportunities should use more equity financing, while firms with stable cash flows should use more debt. The paper also discusses the importance of covenants and other contract terms in reducing the agency costs of debt.

The fourth part of the paper discusses the implications of the theory for the design of equity contracts. It shows that the firm's investment opportunities and growth prospects are crucial in determining the optimal equity structure. For example, firms with high growth opportunities should use more equity financing, while firms with stable cash flows should use more debt. The paper also discusses the importance of covenants and other contract terms in reducing the agency costs of equity.

Emma R. Weaver, born February 7, 1849, married to Henry B. Allen, at Berlin Center, Ohio, December 21, 1871. After some years they moved to Jamestown, North Dakota, where she died January 26, 1908.

Austin R. Weaver, born in Beallsville, Penn., June 15, 1852, died August 20, 1852.

Ella M. Weaver, born October 15, 1855, married Lloyd F. Kline, of Berlin Center, Ohio, November 12, 1874. They lived for some years on a farm in the vicinity, later moved to Youngstown, O., where they still reside.

William H. Weaver, born May 27, 1858, later went west to Nebraska, and later to Kirksville, Mo., where he was married, having one son, and still reside there.

Virgil E. Weaver, born April 1, 1861, unmarried, was on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Ry., in the capacity of engineer, for some years, resigned, and is following the carpenter trade at the present time at Leetonia, Ohio.

Warwick Priory has had an engaging history. It was formerly dedicated to St. Sepulcher, founded as a monastery by Henry de Newburg, first Earl of Warwick, and completed by his son, Rodger. At the time of the dissolution it was granted to a trusty retainer of John Dudley, Duke of Northumberland, Thomas Hawkins by name, popularly known as “THE FISHER.” He pulled down the monastery and built the present mansion which was completed about 1565. The north front preserves its old features, but the south was rebuilt about 1750 in the style then prevalent.

This historic pile, erected in 1565, is being taken down, stone by stone, loaded on ships and brought here, where it will be reconstructed along original lines as the Virginia House, a repository of the Virginia Historical Society as a keeping place of its records. The first shipload of materials has just arrived at Norfolk. From there it will be transported by train to Richmond.

Thomas Hawkins, of Bealsville, Pa., son of Rev. Robert Hawkins, was born on April 2nd, 1809. He lived and married Mary Teegarden of Columbiana County, Ohio, on December 13th, 1836. The couple left the next day for Bealsville, Pa., on horse back. They commenced house keeping on a small farm that Thomas Hawkins had bought previous to his marriage. They lived there for ten years, then sold the farm and moved to Ohio. They came by canal boat from Pittsburgh to Youngstown, there was met by William Teegarden, father of his wife, with two covered wagons which carried them to Berlin Center, their new home, bought of Joseph H. Cold in 1845.

Thomas Hawkins and wife Mary prospered and raised a family of nine children, three boys and six girls: Lavosier, Ellen, Susie, Laura, William, Mary, Elizabeth, Emmer and Nettie.

During the civil war Thomas Hawkins dealt very heavily in wool and lost many thousand dollars. Thomas Hawkins died on the 25th day of December, 1882, in full hope of meeting his heavenly Father in Peace and many other loved ones. Mary Hawkins, his wife, departed from this life on the 16th day of August, 1895, leaving many loved ones to mourn her loss with bright hope of meeting the angel bond.

W. T. Hawkins, son of Thomas and Mary Hawkins, was born on September 24th, 1844, and lived and worked on his father's farm until the civil war. He was one of the many that went to cut off

We were then pushed to the front in Sherman's division in the army of the Potomac, first at Harpers Ferry, Martinsburgh, then to Petersburg. There we had our first sight of battle. Many were killed. I was detailed as messenger boy and given a mule to ride. All was haste during the battle. I was then sent to the field hospital to help care for the wounded.

LIFE OF THOMAS HAWKINS

Thomas Hawkins came to Ohio from Washington County, Pennsylvania. He took up a government claim near Lisbon, Ohio, to which he kept adding until he had fifteen hundred acres in one tract. In 1807 he bought 167 acres where the old original house stands.

He and his wife, Catherine Hawkins (Nee Mosier) came over in an ox-cart with their personal and household goods and built a cabin in the woods. They worked until late into the night building their home. Mrs. Hawkins would build up a brushwood fire so her husband could see to go about his work.

When they come from Pennsylvania their entire property consisted of what goods could be brought in the ox-cart and one dollar and a quarter in money.

They immediately set about clearing the land in order to plant crops. Grain was very plentiful then and hard to sell. At one time Thomas Hawkins took a load of wheat to town and tried to exchange it for a few tea cups. They were expecting their first visitors, relatives from Pennsylvania, and had only a few tin cups. The merchant told Mr. Hawkins he had no use for the wheat "unless he used it to pave the street." He refused to give the cups on credit. "All right," said Thomas Hawkins, "We'll take turn about with the tins. He had the money he said, but more important places for it.

From time to time old neighbors and friends came over from Washington County and took up land near the Hawkins'. However most of them grew discouraged and gave up their lands to go back home. Mr. Hawkins was a man of great stability and business ability. He never grew discouraged. When the others moved away leaving the land partly cleared, he would often buy it up.

He engaged in the sheep raising business. From a few sheep he increased his flock to a great herd. He kept adding to his property until at one time he had three thousand acres, "and a sheep for each acre."

Work was begun on a canal which ran through Lisbon and Elkton. Mr. Hawkins invested five thousand dollars in this project. However, with building of better roads and the beginning of railroads, it became evident that canal stock was going to depreciate. One day a speculator who was considered a shrewd business man stopped at the Hawkins home and asked Thomas what he would take for his canal stock. "What will you give?" he was asked. "Five hundred dollars," was the offer. Mr. Hawkins pondered a little. "Just take it for that," he said. Not long after the buyer stopped to chat with Mr. Hawkins. "I thought when I bought that stock for five hundred dollars I had caught you napping," he said. "But I lost every cent of the money."

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins were strong "pillars of the Church." They attended services at Church Hill, which was of Bible Christian denomination. At one time a new preacher was sent to the Hawkins' home to stay over Saturday night. His name was Andrew Hanger. He lost his way, and did not arrive until about ten o'clock. He stopped at the lane of the Hawkins home. "Would it be possible to stay here for the night?" he called. It would be pretty hard to turn a man away at this hour," said Thomas. "Come in." The next day he discovered that this was the expected guest.

Thomas Hawkins was always willing and ready to help anyone in need. He saved many a family from poverty and discouragement. Many farmers were given sheep "on the shares." The farmers cared for the sheep and received half the profit. Mr. Hawkins was highly respected and loved for his good works.

Thomas was a man with no disposition to rove. He lived and died in the same locality where he first settled. He amassed quite a fortune for those times, although he started with but a dollar and a quarter. A large sum of money was lost in the failure of the Lisbon Bank which was under the management of Thomas McCoy.

Mr. Hawkins lost his eyesight nine years before his death at the age of 84 years, 3 months and 8 days. He had lost his hearing many years before following the explosion of a rifle in his hand. His death occurred June 3, 1876.

Mr. Hawkins family consisted of four boys and two girls. Five children were born to his first marriage to Catherine Mosier, who died September 21, 1838, aged 47 years. One daughter was born to his second marriage to Deborah, who died September 4, 1875.

Thomas Hawkins had little education but was a fine penman and quick thinker. He loaned a great deal of money to many people in need and it was said he could calculate interest in his head faster than most people could on paper.

A BRIEF SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF WILLIAM HAWKINS SR.

In the direct ancestral line of the Hawkins family, William Hawkins, son of Thomas and Catherine Hawkins, was born May 4, 1812, on a farm near Lisbon, Columbiana county, Ohio. He remained with his parents for quite a number of years, but in 1834 he was united in marriage with Elize Hawkins of Beallsville, Washington county, Penn., and to this union three children were born; Catherine, John, and Eliza. Their home was established on his father's farm of 210 acres situated one mile east of East Fairfield, Columbiana county, Ohio, known as the Armstrong Farm and in 1842 received a deed for the same. About seven years after their marriage Eliza passed away.

Following this bereavement, he was married to Amanda Randolph in 1842. Amanda was the daughter of Edward and Mary Randolph. Amanda Fitz Randolph was descendent in the sixth

The first part of the report deals with the general situation in the country. It is noted that the economy is still in a state of depression, and that the government is struggling to find ways to stimulate growth. The report also mentions that the government is planning to increase its spending on infrastructure and social services.

In the second part of the report, the author discusses the political situation. It is noted that the government is facing opposition from various groups, and that there is a need for a more unified front. The author also mentions that the government is planning to hold elections in the near future.

The third part of the report deals with the social situation. It is noted that there is a high level of unemployment, and that many people are struggling to make ends meet. The report also mentions that the government is planning to increase its social welfare programs.

Finally, the author concludes the report by stating that the country is in a difficult position, and that it will take time to get back on track. However, the author believes that with the right policies and leadership, the country can overcome its current challenges.

generation from Edward Fitz Randolph who migrated from Nottinghamshire, Eng., to Plymouth, Mass., in A. D. 1630. Only ten years after landing of the separatists, Pilgrims at that place to more readily distinguished him from those of his descendants who have borne the same given name he is usually referred to as Edward the immigrant. Soon after his arrival at Plymouth Mr. Randolph located at Seitwate about half way from Plymouth to Boston, by way of the coast and in what is now Plymouth County. James Fitz Randolph was father of twenty-one of whom Edward, born August 10, 1788, being one of them and father of Amanda Fitz Randolph Hawkins. To this union nine children were born; Ruth, Mary, Lydia, Loretta, Thomas, Ellis, Hannah, William and Deborah.

In 1844 they built a brick structure where they continued to live up to the time of their death. Wm. Hawkins burned the brick and lime securing the material on the farm for the construction of the house. It is standing at present in a good state of preservation.

He was a man of sterling industry and prospered finely in his farm management. However, this property was located in the pathway of the cyclonic storm that swept over this part of Ohio in 1856 and left his large barn in ruins. Undaunted he set about building a new one on the same foundation. This was soon completed, but a few years later was destroyed by lightning during a great electrical storm. To most men this would have been a staggering blow, but to William Hawkins whose faith in God was unshaken by these sorry misfortunes, they seemed but a spur to his energy. Soon he had another barn on the same foundation and this structure is still in good condition, 1928.

Father and Mother Hawkins were of a social disposition and were very hospitable. The celebration of birthdays and the occurrence of family reunions gave them unbounded pleasure. They had a wide circle of friends and were known far and near as good Samaritans, for they were ever ready and willing to lend a helping hand where needed. Under these conditions, one is not surprised to find their children gifted with the same noble qualities, such qualities as help to make the world a better, happier place to live.

His farm was largely devoted to stock raising, horses being his favorites along this line. He took pride in a good horse and however wild, never failed to manage it. He made sheep raising a success and apparently took delight along this line also. It was not unusual to find him caring for a flock of five hundred fine wool sheep.

He was a man of few words and was very firm in his convictions as to the right. His word was his bond. Being a man of wide experience and sound judgement concerning many of the problems of life, his counsel was frequently sought by others. He never neglected the duties due his family and home, was never too busy to visit his friends and neighbors, especially in their time of need. He was a devout Christian and he and his family attended Divine Services whenever health would permit. As to this, a lady now nearly 82 years old who was a little girl, living near the road along which they passed going to church, speaks of the delight it gave her each Sabbath, to see Mr. Hawkins' beautiful team and carriage, the carriage loaded with children, on the way to church. Thus the children of the family were early brought under Christian influence that now plainly manifests itself in their maturity.

Several years prior to his death, he turned the management of his farm over to his sons, Ellis and William. Ellis and his wife, Mary, lived with the father and mother in the old homestead and faithfully administered to their comforts and their needs until death called them to their Reward on High.

In closing this brief sketch of William Hawkins, Sr., it is but just to say he was a remarkable man along many lines and his character remains unchallenged. His word was his bond, his friendship was golden, his support of that which was just and right was unfailing. His loyalty to his family and to his home radiated all the time like summer sunshine. Let us drop fresh garlands on his tomb.

McBride, born April 23, 1837, and died 1890. Married October 9, 1856, at East Fairfield, Ohio, at the home of the bride's parents.

To this union eleven children were born: Jesse, William H., Louella, Mattie, Annie, Alice, Ruth, Thomas, Charles, Sarah and Frank.

The following verse is written by Pearl in honor of my mother and father:

Faithful and true through life
 They followed their rugged way,
 Looking to cease the strife
 And lead to a brighter day.
 Not much of gold had they
 But with love was their measure filled
 Their life held little of play,
 In God's love their grief was stilled.
 To a happier land on high
 They have climbed on a ladder of tears
 While sweet memories linger nigh
 To lighten us through the years.

who was born in the state of Maryland, while the latter was of German parentage, born in the province of Baden, Germany.

ROBT. AND CATHERINE HAWKINS (Stark County)

The subject was reared and educated in Columbiana county. In 1835 he came to Stark county, settling on the homestead now bearing his name. Here he and his father became associated in the erection of a saw mill, the same being the first in this section and located on the homestead farm.

It is interesting to make record of the fact that this mill was kept in operation for nearly one hundred years. The products of the old mill have continuously been utilized year after year from the time of its establishment to the present. The mill was originally operated by water power. The dam constructed nearly one hundred years ago is plainly visible.

The subject increased his landed estate in this county to three hundred and seventy acres (370) and became one of the honored and influential men of the community here, continuing to maintain his abode until he was summoned from the scene of life's activities January 17, 1888, at the age of 72 years. He originally gave his allegiance to the Whig Party, but from practically the time of the origination of the Republican Party he espoused its cause of which he ever afterward continued a staunch advocate. He served for two years as a member of the directorate of the county infirmary while for several years he was the capable and popular incumbent of the office of township trustee. During war of the Rebellion he assisted on two different occasions in clearing the township of the draft, and to the members of 115 Regiment of Ohio Volunteer Infantry, to whom he had extended many favors and much aid, he was affectionately and familiarly known as "Pop Hawkins." He gave dinners to them in Massillon, Columbus and Cincinnati and later, in order to provide them with a similar treat at Nashville, Tenn., after they had gone to the front, he was personally compelled to enlist in the service which he cheerfully did, though he had passed the age limit. While he was in Nashville his son, Albert, was taken prisoner at the block house between that city and Franklin, and was later incarcerated in the famous Andersonville prison-pen of notorious and odious memory, being held in captivity about six months and enduring all the horrors and privations which have made that prison hold so great disrepute in father was a member of the Bible Christian Church, and was for many years an officer in the same, holding various positions and being an earnest worker for both spiritual and temporal advancement of the church work. He was well known throughout this section of the country and his friends were in number as his acquaintances, for his life was exemplary in every relation and his kindly and genial nature won to him warm and lasting esteem. His devoted wife was a zealous member of the Christian Church. She died October 24, 1907, aged 87 years.

HISTORY OF ROBERT M. HAWKINS

Robert M. Hawkins, born February 13, 1817, at New Lisbon, Ohio, married Catherine Ann Hawkins, born August 7, 1820, of Beallsville Penn., October 29, 1839. After the marriage at Beallsville, Penn., they rode to New Lisbon, Ohio, on horseback, this being about the only mode of travel at this early date, there being no roads only paths through the woods, and from there to New Franklin, Ohio, where the father had built a log house, and went to house-keeping. There all the children were born except Johnson, Walter, and twins. The children follow in rotation.

William Thomas Hawkins, born May 17, 1842, died February 26, 1926, married June 15, 1868, to Malessa Moore, born April 6, 1843, died September 18, 1887, to whom five children were born, namely; Clyde, Glenn, Myrtie, Robert, George.

Clyde Hawkins, born May 17, 1869, married May 12, 1913, to Artie Hurd, born September 2, 1877.

Glenn Hawkins, born September 16, 1871, married December 30, 1908, to Esther B. Cameron, born March 13, 1879. To this union there are four children, namely;

Harrold Thomas Hawkins, born July 14, 1910.

Lela Myrtle Hawkins, born July 12, 1912.

Vernon Homer Hawkins, born March 30, 1916.

Galen Walter Hawkins, born March 13, 1919.

Walter Leonidis Hawkins, born October 5, 1852, died November 21, 1854.

Johnson H. Hawkins, to whom this brief review is dedicated, was reared on the old homestead farm where he now resides, and he is indebted to the district school of the locality for the early education he received. From his boyhood days he assisted his father in the work of the saw mill, and as he approached manhood the management of the mill and the farm largely devolved upon him. His father was of liberal and confiding nature and lost not little in a financial way through responding to the importunities of supposed friends, who abused his confidence, and still he became one of the substantial and well to do men of the county. The subject continued to be associated with his honored sire in the farm work and mill until his father's death, after which he purchased 80 acres of the old homestead including the residence and the buildings, also saw mill, which he operated at intervals. He has resided on this farm his entire life and thus has become well known to the people of this section, who accord to him that high esteem and confidence which were given to his father to whom he was a worthy coadjutor and of whom he is a worthy successor. He is one of the model farmers of this locality and he has not been denied that measure of success which should ever attend earnest and honest endeavor. In politics he has ever given an unequalled allegiance to the Republican party and he has taken an active interest in public affairs of a local nature while he served one term as township trustee. He and his wife are members of the M. E. Church. On the 18th of December, 1890, he was married to Miss Tirzah Smith who was born in Paris township, this county, being a daughter of Isaac and Sarah J. Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins have three children; Earle H., Morris J., and Sarah Josephine.

NANCY SMITH

Faint, mostly illegible text, possibly a list or a set of instructions, arranged in several lines.

Faint, mostly illegible text, possibly a list or a set of instructions, arranged in several lines.

The maternal grand parents of Rev. William Smith were Richard and Aravilla(Durbin) Hawkins.

Rev. William Smith, the subject proper of this sketch, was born in Harford county, Md., February 9, 1805, and died February 19, 1899, at the age of 94 years. At the age of 20 years was converted and united with M. E. Church. Soon after this he felt that God was calling him to the ministry. True to his convictions, he accepted the call and preached his first sermon July 4, 1830. He labored a few years in the Baltimore Conference. The first annual conference he attended was held in Washington City. In a few years he moved to Ohio and settled in Columbiana county. The same religion that he espoused beyond the mountains, they brought with them. He was a flower in the hands of the Lord in bringing the backwoods-man into the light of the gospel.

He took charge of circuits for a few years in the M. E. Church. About this time the Wesleyan Church sprung into existence, its foundation being the abolition of human slavery. The anti-slavery principles formed in youth were still the ruling passion of his life. He severed his connection with the old Church and took a position in the new one, into which he threw his entire moral force to down slavery. This meant persecution—but he fought the lion in his den until he saw the last shackle broken and cast asunder by the stroke of the pen wielded through the wisdom of Abraham Lincoln. The Proclamation of Emancipation that broke the chains from off four million slaves was the crowning point in the life of this pioneer preacher. As the mission of the Wesleyan Church as a distinct organization was filled, he united with the U. B. Church at Mt. Cannal, Tuscarawas county, Ohio. He was never a traveling preacher in this church, yet he preached hundreds of times since joining this denomination. He preached his last sermon at the Mt. Cannal Church when at the age of 90 years.

He bought a farm on which he resided up to the time of his death in Perry Township, Tuscarawas county, Ohio. He was married in 1830 to Charlotte Baker, daughter of Captain Jeremiah Baker of Revolutionary fame. There were born to this union eight children—George (deceased M. E. Minister), John (deceased), Samuel, Rebecca, Sarah, Mary, Lizzie, Charlotte.

Ohio; lived there about two years and mother died January, 1858; in the spring of 1858, father took us children back to Columbiana county, Ohio.

From there I went to Stark county, Ohio, and went to work for Jacob A. Meese, Eliza Hawkins Meese was his wife.

In the fall of 1864 I enlisted in Company A., 29th Ohio Regiment and was sent to the front at once joining the first Brigade, 2nd Division, 20th Army Corps, and was on the march to the Sea under the command of General William T. Sherman; from Savannah, Ga., we went north through South Carolina and North Carolina and through Virginia on to Washington, D. C., and was in the Review. Went to Camp Chase, Ohio, and was mustered out and sent home in 1865, remaining at J. A. Meese's until the spring of 1868, when I went to Iowa with my Uncle George Hawkins and family.

On September 22, 1870, was married to Mary Annetta Engle, a daughter to Josiah Engle and wife. The spring of 1871, we moved to ourselves on a 30-acre brush farm.

Well, as I didn't plant that brush, I soon brushed to town and built us a comfortable home and went to teaming. This was at Lineville, Iowa. In the fall of '78 we moved to Davis City, Decatur county, Iowa. In the spring of 1879, we moved to Dewitt, Nebraska, Salene county, and in the fall of 1884, I went to Hitchcock county, Nebraska, and took a homestead. The spring of 1885, April 15, I moved on my homestead and commenced to build a dugout and later a sod house; finally sold my homestead and took a preension and built a frame house 24x24, one story and full stone basement and dug a well 80 feet and erected a Star windmill.

Right here we began to see hard times by crop failure, caused by hot winds; during our nine years' stay on my homestead and preension we had our corn cut to the ground by hail, not even corn left to fatten a few hogs for our own meat. Once we had 125 acres of corn in tassel and silk and in two days the hot wind destroyed it and we didn't have as much as a mess of roasting ears and our wheat crops were invariably damaged by the draught every year but one in our nine years of farming.

This ran from 1885 to 1894. One morning, we all well remembered, we had just five small biscuits for breakfast, and six of us to eat them. Seemed none were hungry for them and about two of them remained on the table after we were all through eating. Will say we had plenty for supper, as I quit farming and got a job building large Flumes to carry water across deep gulches for irrigation purposes.

From then on, commenced to get shut of my land the best I could. Our two largest boys got so discouraged the last year they would take a good cry every morning they were asked to get the teams ready for work.

We finally pulled out with 15 head of horses and three cows and one calf, and left 20 acres of the finest of spring wheat anyone ever saw and it grew to about six inches and dried up. We had planted about 30 acres of corn that spring and it got so dry we had to quit planting.

The oldest boy and I started east to find work; took four of the biggest horses and a big wagon. Struck a job at Byron, Nebraska, and put my son to work, while I returned home and disposed of a few hogs and some wheat and then struck east for Byron, Nebraska, and left my free claim unsold.

We landed on our job all OK, 3 miles south of Byron, Nebraska, and put three teams in a 125 acres of corn. We had it all nice and clean and cleaned up all the sand burrs we could find and the corn was coming fine and sometime, I can't just recall the date, but the farmers all turned out for a harvest jubilee a few miles south of the man by the name of C. J. Getings, a salesman for the International Harvester Company with headquarters at Hastings, Nebraska. Mr. Getings came in home and his prospects for a bumper crop were fine and I was to remain on the place. Another hot wind came and I was out looking for another place to light. Ha.

I hitched up a light pair of roasters and struck back for Dewitt, Nebraska, where we had left the spring in April, 1885, on a visit. Well, it looked so good to me I bought a pretty fair piece of property right in Dewitt. Left the wife and two babies with my brother and family; this was in the fall of 1894. I drove back to Byron and loaded up what I had there and pulled for Dewitt, Nebraska.

We landed all OK and went to getting some feed for our horses, 15 head of them and three cows, and a job to put in 20 acres of fall wheat for one, John and Stacey Bivens, two miles northeast of Dewitt. Got that done and went to cutting some late corn with a binder for a man by the name of William Plucknet.

I then took a big job of grubbing for the wood and all the logs from the trees I grubbed out. We got some nice elm and ash logs besides a host of wood. I sold the ash and elm timber to a wagon maker at a good price and took another job for the same man cutting a lot of gaton wood logs, some of the trees four feet at the stump and we cut quite a few of the large trees and some not so small and hauled them to a saw mill close by. This about ends our work for 1894.

Just cut wood and fed stock until the spring. In April, 1895, we moved on the farm where we put out the 20 acres of wheat for John and Stacy Bivens and farmed the rest of their land to corn and even put the 20 acres we had put in wheat in corn as the wheat was sown too late to hardly get through the ground. I told the Bivens brothers they might as well throw their seed wheat in the Blue river as it was too late to sow wheat.

Well, I got my pay for fixing the ground and putting in the wheat. I sure had a fine lot of corn. They called it the "mortgage lifter," but the people in Beatrice called it "Gold Dollars." Ha! I didn't, however, as I only got 25c per bushel and it was only 15c a bushel at Dewitt, Nebraska, that fall.

I traded my tree claim I had left in Hitchcock county, Nebraska, in on a livery barn and moved back to Dewitt and run the barn for four years and then sold out and traveled from August 1900, until the later part of November. We landed in North Platte and rented a house for the winter and stored a shooting gallery we had for the winter and went to work teaming for another man that was in the contracting business.

We had steady work until the last of March, 1901, then we left North Platte for Manawa, but stopped in Council Bluffs, Iowa, then went on to Manawa. In 1902 we bought three lots and built a small cottage and in 1906 I bought three more lots and in the spring of 1908 I sold these six lots and reserved the cottage I had built and went two blocks east and bought four and one-half acres of ground and built a nine-room house. We moved into this house and had the cottage moved over on the corner of our acreage and rented it at once.

In 1911 we converted the said cottage into a feed mill run by electricity, took 300 acres of land to farm, 80 acres of which was pasture. In 1912 as we started to harrow the listed corn I met with an accident and am lame in one hip and caused a bad rupture, which I am still lame from.

At Manawa, March 13, 1913, we met with a destructive cyclone which moved our house ten feet to the northwest, tore down all our out buildings consist-

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for transparency and accountability, particularly in the context of public administration and financial management. The text notes that without reliable records, it is difficult to track the flow of funds and ensure that resources are being used effectively and efficiently.

2. The second part of the document addresses the challenges associated with data collection and analysis. It highlights that gathering accurate and timely data can be a complex task, often requiring significant resources and expertise. The text suggests that organizations should invest in training and technology to improve their data management capabilities. Additionally, it stresses the importance of ensuring the privacy and security of the data collected, as this information can be sensitive and valuable.

3. The third part of the document focuses on the role of technology in modernizing operations. It discusses how digital tools and platforms can streamline processes, reduce errors, and enhance communication. The text mentions that cloud-based solutions and data analytics software can provide valuable insights into organizational performance and help identify areas for improvement. However, it also notes that the successful implementation of technology requires careful planning and a strong foundation of infrastructure.

4. The fourth part of the document discusses the importance of collaboration and communication. It states that no single department or individual can achieve the organization's goals in isolation. Effective communication and collaboration between all levels of the organization are crucial for identifying opportunities, solving problems, and driving innovation. The text encourages the establishment of clear lines of communication and the promotion of a culture of openness and teamwork.

5. The fifth part of the document concludes by emphasizing the need for continuous improvement and adaptation. It notes that the business environment is constantly changing, and organizations must be able to respond to these changes effectively. This requires a commitment to ongoing learning, innovation, and the willingness to embrace change. The text suggests that regular reviews and assessments of organizational performance can help identify areas for improvement and ensure that the organization remains competitive and resilient in the long run.

ing of wash room, coal shed and large chicken house with 16 foot glass front, scratching shed and a 10x16 foot booth for straw and pigeons and a covered wire pen for pigeons 10x12 feet, also unroofed our cottage and tore out one side and unroofed a corn crib filled with the finest of corn, 500 bushels, and a lot more corn stored in the feed mill and over 100 bushels of fine oats and took a wheat binder and leaned it up against a heavy post at the corner of a small stall for one team of horses.

I sold all these oats to farmers for seed as it was full of broken glass and took out all the machinery and built quite a good sized mill with pit below, first floor and elevated grain to the second floor and return spout to the grinder. One foot sills and 2x20 inch joist and had a real feed mill.

We had our house all set back in place and built a nice big cement chicken house and built a new fence around the four and one-fourth acres and sold out in February, 1915, and bought two lots and a four room house of our son, Frank, and built on two bedrooms and bath and put in a hot-water heating plant which proved to be a success.

In 1917, I bought another lot and a small cottage and built two more new cottages with four rooms all furnished with plaster and gas lights and got good rent for same and in September, 1919, we sold out at Manawa and went to Los Angeles, California.

At once we bought property, an orange grove, in Hollywood, for $5,000 cash. Well, as our son, Hosea Hawkins, didn't like California—said it looked too much like France—as he was over in the World War—I said, "If you don't like it here we can sell out and return east." So I bought a home in Omaha, Nebraska, from our daughter, Carrie. Her husband, Mr. Sgt. E. E. Mull, was then over seas in the Signal Service Corps. She thought she would buy them a nice little home in Omaha ready to receive her husband on his return, which was in September, 1919, and went to Washington, D. C. to attend the final parade. They are now in Fort Omaha, Nebraska, in the service.

We sold our orange property in just three months after we had bought it for $7,000 cash and as my property in Omaha was leased till the first of October 1920, we decided to buy another lot and build a house and sold that by the time we could get our Omaha property. Started to build February 1, 1920. Our lot and cost of house complete was $6,000 and we moved into this new house August 15, 1920, and sold it about August 15, 1920 for $8,000, with a $2,000 cash payment and when our final settlement came in 1923 we had received $500 interest on back money, so I think we hadn't lost much in making our trip to California, in about eleven months time and seen a world of nice scenery on our trip both going from and coming back to Omaha.

About August 21, 1920, we landed in Omaha, Nebraska, a beautiful large city. We were met at the depot in Omaha by our son and family and two daughters and their husbands and their children awaiting our arrival in Council Bluffs, Iowa, at Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Westlands' home where we spent a very pleasant evening in relating to them our pleasant trip to California.

We went over to our new home in Omaha. Our daughter, Carrie, made a transfer of the property to us and I paid them $1,000 more than she had paid for the property and in the spring of 1921, March 1, I sold the property for $500 more than it cost me besides no rent to pay that fall and winter. I gave possession March 1, 1921, and came over the river into Council Bluffs and bought property at 3226, Avenue "B", where we now reside, and as my wife has asked permission to remain at this place while she is permitted to stay here on earth, I kindly grant her wishes.

HOSEA AND JULIA ANN HAWKINS

Hosea Hawkins, son of Richard and Julia Ann Hawkins, was born October 18, 1828, at Beallsville, Washington County, Pa., and when five years old he with his parents came to Lisbon, Columbiana County, Ohio, and when seven years old his parents moved to near New Franklin, Stark County, Ohio, on a farm.

Hosea was one of eleven children, and all have passed away, but the youngest brother, Richard Hawkins, Jr., of West Unity, Ohio, and at this writing is in fair health for one of his years, now 87. In October 23, 1851, Hosea Hawkins was married to Martha McClunn, of New Franklin, Stark County, Ohio. They went to housekeeping at Church Hill, near New Lisbon, Ohio, and in 1854, came back to Stark County, Ohio, where they lived the remainder of their life.

On November 12, 1907 Mrs. Hawkins passed away. Some years before she had a stroke, then other complications followed and she was taken to her heavenly home. Though by nature, quiet and undemonstrative, as she neared the heavenly home her great life became ruling element and especially for her children who seemed more dear to her as time for separation drew near.

HOSEA AND JULIA ANN HAWKINS

Hosea Hawkins died October 14, 1908 at Lawton Michigan, while visiting his sister Mrs. Ellen Kimball. Took sick there with dysentery and his age being against him it seemed nothing could be done. His son Alvin and son-in-law E.E. Morton were with him at the time of his death and brought his remains back to his home and on his eightieth birthday was laid to rest by the side of his wife in Mt. Union cemetery.

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The history of the United States is a story of growth and change. From the first European settlements to the present day, the nation has expanded its territory and diversified its economy. The early years were marked by the struggle for independence and the establishment of a new government. The middle years saw the westward expansion and the development of a strong industrial base. The late years have been characterized by the challenges of the Civil War, the Reconstruction era, and the rise of the modern nation.

The story of the United States is one of a people who have built a great nation from a small group of immigrants. They have faced many hardships and challenges, but they have always found a way to overcome them. Their spirit of freedom and democracy has inspired the world, and their achievements are a source of pride for all Americans.

Portrait of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson

The early years of the United States were a time of great uncertainty and challenge. The young nation was struggling to establish a stable government and a strong economy. The Founding Fathers, including George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, played a crucial role in shaping the nation's future. Their vision of a free and democratic society has guided the United States ever since.

The westward expansion of the United States was a defining feature of its early history. As settlers moved westward, they discovered vast new lands and resources. This expansion led to the development of a strong agricultural and industrial base, which laid the foundation for the nation's economic growth.

During the year 1853 he and his wife united with the Bible Christian Church at Church Hill near Lisbon Ohio. In 1875 they transferred their membership to the Methodist Church at New Franklin Stark Co. Ohio, where they remained faithful and regular attendants at all devine services, and during which membership Mr. Hawkins served many years as Sunday School supertinent, steward and class leader. In the latter portion he was a most earnest and attentive listener. By occupation he was a farmer, and his great care of stock and general management was always of most careful order. He delighted in raising sheep and was very successful with them. He set an example of neatness of surroundings and in assisting nature to beautify the country home in which he lived. The home was located in Washington Townshipp, Stark Co. Ohio on the Alliance and Minerva road and was well and favorably known through eastern Stark Co.

To this union seven children came, Alvin born June 14, 1853. Thomas Dayton born June 12, 1856, died December 19, 1865. Mary Josaphine born June 17, 1860, died April 4, 1861. Rose Elma born August 17, 1862. Robert Cullen born April 3, 1867, died July 28, 1890. Clinton born March 11, 1869, Cora Bell, born July 17, 1872, died January 13, 1873.

Alvin Hawkins son of Hosea and Martha Hawkins was born near Lisbon Ohio and when a babe his parents came to Stark Co. Ohio. He was united in marriage to Lelila C. Bonbarke December 27, 1877. One daughter was born to this union.

Alvin spent the greater part of his life near New Franklin, Stark Co. Ohio. While on his way from work he was struck by an auto and two weeks later, on January 11, 1923, he died at the Alliance City Hospital.

He was a successful farmer all his life, in 1905 he sold his farm and moved to Beloit Ohio, where he lived at the time of his death. He and his wife united with the Bible Christian Church at Alexander about 1883. He remained an active member until his death. He was a member of the protected Home Circle No. 11 of Alliance, Ohio. He was laid to rest in the Alliance City Cemetery.

Robert Cullen, son of Hosea and Martha Hawkins, was 23 years old at the time of his death. He died near Lisbon, Ohio, while there for treatment; when nine years old was stricken with spinal disease from which time he was never able to walk. Cullen was an unusually bright boy, and would have been a useful citizen. He was brought home and laid to rest in the family lot.

Thomas Dayton died when nine years old with brain fever, and Mary Josaphine and Cora Bell died in infancy.

Rose Elma was married to Elmer E. Morton, October 19, 1882.

Clinton was married to Nora Smith December 25, 1907 and remained on the old home place until 1918, then sold the farm and bought the E. E. Morton property just one of the south-east corner of the old place, where they still live.

Lelilia Hawkins, daughter of Alvin and Lelia Hawkins, was born March 11, 1884, at Alexander, Ohio, was married to LeRoy Walker June 8, 1904, to this union three sons came, Donald, born January 16, 1906. Dwight Devitt, born January 1, 1910, Myron Alvin, born February 27, 1919.

The husband and father died February 14, 1925, after a four weeks illness with typhoid fever and pneumonia, a patient sufferer from the first with his faith pinned supremely to Jesus Christ. He expressed himself as being ready to go. He and his wife were among the earlier settlers of Schring, Ohio, where they still lived at the time of his death.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This ensures transparency and allows for easy verification of the data.

In the second section, the author outlines the various methods used to collect and analyze the data. This includes both manual and automated processes. The goal is to ensure that the data is as accurate and reliable as possible.

The third part of the document provides a detailed breakdown of the results. It shows the total amount collected, the number of transactions, and the average value per transaction. These figures are presented in a clear and concise manner.

Finally, the document concludes with a summary of the findings and a list of recommendations. It suggests ways to improve the data collection process and to ensure that the information is used effectively.

FAMILY HISTORY OF ROBERT A. BARNES

Robert A. Barnes, youngest son of Gregory and Elizabeth (Hawkins) Barnes, was born near Havre de Grace, Md., June 19, 1821, died July 12, 1898.

He was the youngest of a family of twelve children. When a young man he fished on the Susquehanna river and the Chesapeake Bay, helped to knit many a seine, one a mile long, where they used seven horses and seventy men to draw it to the shore, catching hundreds of barrels of fish, shad and herring, drying and packing them for the Baltimore market. He owned a farm near Churchville, Md., where he resided for eleven years after his marriage with Avarella Ann Gilbert, also of Harford county, Md., who was born August 24, 1823, died July 14, 1916, almost ninety-three years of age. They were married May 28, 1846.

In 1857, he with his wife and four little children came to Ohio and bought a farm near New Albany, from his uncle Thomas Hawkins, here they lived for a number of years. In 1880 he moved

He raised fine and valuable sheep and horses, several times taking horses over the mountains to Maryland, riding one and leading two or three, with another man doing the same. During the Civil War he was drafted, but having a family of little children, he employed a substitute to take his place. He was ready to fight and when the news came about Morgan's Raid, he took his gun and with the others started to meet "Morgan." He was a staunch republican and an intimate friend of President Garfield. Joyial disposition, fond of telling stories to suit the occasion. For a number of years when

How to Buy

Insurance

Medical insurance is a new and important development in the history of the American people. It is a means of protecting the individual and his family against the financial consequences of illness and disability. The American Medical Association has long been a strong advocate of medical insurance, and it is pleased to see the widespread adoption of such plans by the American people.

Thomas H. Johnson, Secretary of the American Medical Association, has recently issued a report on the progress of medical insurance in the United States. The report shows that the number of people covered by medical insurance has increased steadily since 1935, and that the total amount of money paid for medical insurance has also increased. This is a clear indication that the American people are becoming more conscious of the need for medical insurance, and are taking steps to protect themselves and their families against the financial consequences of illness and disability.

Ruth, born in 1912, is a typical example of the American woman who has benefited from medical insurance. She has been able to pay for her medical care through her insurance plan, and has not had to pay out of her own pocket. This has allowed her to continue to work and support her family, even when she has been ill or disabled.

The American Medical Association is proud to have been a part of the development of medical insurance in the United States. It has worked hard to educate the American people about the benefits of medical insurance, and to help them to choose the best plan for their needs. It will continue to work for the improvement of medical insurance, and for the protection of the American people.

years of service, has an exceptional record, for in that period of time she was out of school only five days because of illness. It is doubtful if such a record is equalled in the state.

Miss Barnes, who in her work has always stood for the highest degree of character building, is self-educated, having earned her own way. She was born near New Albany, and is one of the four in her immediate family who taught school.

After attending the rural school she went to the Northeastern Ohio College at Canfield, and has studied at Mt. Union College, Alliance, and Kent Normal College, at Kent. In 1922 she received a life certificate from the state.

Beginning her profession when 19 years old, Miss Barnes taught her first two terms at Chestnut Grove, just south of Salem, and has always taught within a radius of eight miles of this city, including Mahoning county.

The first standardized school in Mahoning county, Meadowbrook, located three miles north of Salem, was taught by Miss Barnes for three years. It was standardized on February 12, 1917, and Miss Barnes relates that on that date the thermometer registered 20 degrees below zero.

At Fairview School, west of McCrackens' Corners, Lisbon Road, Miss Barnes taught for the longest period in her career in one school, having taught there eight years.

The enrollment of the various schools at which Miss Barnes taught, varied from 17 to 57 pupils in one room.

More than 1,000 students have been instructed by Miss Barnes and among these are to be found some who are doctors, lawyers, teachers, merchants, and preachers.—Salem News.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice.

2. The second part details the various methods used to collect and analyze data. This includes both manual and automated processes, ensuring that the information gathered is reliable and up-to-date.

3. The third section focuses on the security of the data. It outlines the protocols for protecting sensitive information from unauthorized access and the steps taken to ensure data integrity.

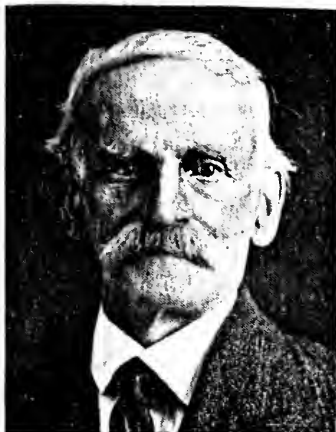

4. Finally, the document concludes with a summary of the findings and recommendations for future improvements. It suggests that regular audits and updates to the system are essential for long-term success.

Army Record of J. E. ...

1, 1917, as a private for the duration of the World War. Walter Reed Hospital was a regular army hospital which was greatly enlarged for the receiving of wounded men from the A. E. F., mostly amputation cases although many general cases of a serious nature were treated. It also served as a base hospital for the many camps established around Washington, D. C., during the War. During my enlistment from 1917 to 1918 I saw this hospital grow from a capacity of some 300 beds until at the apex of the war there were some 4,500 patients cared for there.

Immediately after my enlistment I was kept busy drilling and learning methods of first aid and treatment to the sick and wounded in preparation for service to the A. E. F. But I was soon transferred to duty among the sick and did general orderly duty until about February 1, 1918, when I was transferred to headquarters. Here I was promoted to Corporal, Sergeant and Sergeant First-Class in the Medical Corps, U. S. A. For more than a year prior to my discharge I had charge of the records of soldiers being dismissed from the hospital, either as completely cured or transferred to more suitable institutions for their cure. I was discharged from the army September 8, 1919, as a Sergeant First-Class.

ARMY RECORD OF GEORGE THOMAS HAWKINS

Son of Charley Hawkins, Braddock, Penn.

I was initiated into the army April 26, 1918. Left Braddock, Penn., for Camp Lee, April 30, 1918. Was assigned to the 155th Depot Brigade, then was transferred to Battery F., of the 80th Division. Sailed from Norfolk, Virginia, May 25, landing in France June 9. Went to camp for training for several months. September 12, we proceeded to Verdun Front. Our next move was to the Argonne Front, where we had quite a battle.

After the Armistic was signed I was transferred to the 42nd (Rainbow) Division, Battery B., 149th Field Artillery, November 16, 1918. I was in the hospital sometime with Flu and French fever. I was then transferred from Trever to Coblenz, January 21, 1919. We crossed the Rhine River on a pontoon bridge, arrived at Bordeaux, France, February 24, 1919. I was then sent to Bar

ARMY RECORD OF JOHN W. HAWKINS

John W. Hawkins enlisted in the World War, May 28, 1918. He trained at Camp Gordon, Atlanta Georgia until July 17, sailed from Philadelphia, July 27, and landed at Liverpool, England, August 12. He went to South Hampton, sailed the English Channel to Cherbourg, France, was in training in France for three weeks, and was then taken to the front line as a replacement in Company K., 101 Infantry. This was on the night of the 11th of September, and on the morning of the 12th, the St. Michiel Drive started and from then until November 11th, he was in the thick of it. He was next in Troyon from September 17, to September 28, and after that at Verdun from October 9 to 22. They were next at the Meuse Argonne where they stayed and fought their hardest battles until November 11. The next day they started back to winter quarters, 150 miles back, and walked all the way. Then followed the long winter of waiting to get home. The last of March they were loaded on one of the largest boats, The American, at Brest, and they sailed for home, landing at Boston, April 15, 1919. Mr. Hawkins was in Boston two weeks in camp, then was sent to Camp Sherman for discharge, which he received April 28, 1919.

For 18 years Dr. Carter lived on a farm near East Fairfield, Ohio, then moved to New Waterford, Ohio, where he and Mrs. Carter now reside.

Army Record of Albert E. Hawkins

My service in the Civil War from 1862 to 1865:

I, Albert Hawkins, enlisted at New Franklin the 11th day of August 1862 at the age of 15 years, to serve three years or during the war of the Rebellion. Enlisted in Co. F, 115th, O. V. I., under the call of Abraham Lincoln, for three hundred thousand volunteers. I went to Massillon, Ohio, Stark County, training camp where I was mustered into U. S. service.

Went from there to Camp Dennison, from there to Cincinnati, then to Covington, Ky., then Murfreesboro, Tenn., where I cast my first vote for President Abraham Lincoln when I was 17 years old. From there I went to Nashville, Tenn., where I was taken prisoner of war at battle of Nashville the 4th day of December, 1864. Was taken to Andersonville prison, Georgia, where I was for six months.

I weighed 180 when taken prisoner and came out weighing 90 pounds. I could not walk or stand up; crawled on my hands and knees. Was carried out by three comrades, then went to Jackson, Miss. Was in a rebel hospital for two weeks. Then the Dr. gave me a pass to go to Vicksburg, forty miles away.

I started by myself with a crutch and cane. I have the cane yet. I got to Vicksburg. There they put me in a barracks where they had two large wooden troughs where they put us in with soap and water. They had to let us soak for one hour before they could move mangle from our bodies. My body had not seen water for six months. The few rags we had on were alive with body lice. They handled them with big forks. There we received a suit of underwear and were carried to second story of hospital and not allowed to come down.

Dear Dr. [Name]:
I am pleased to hear from you and to learn that you are interested in the work of the Department of Chemistry at the University of Chicago. We are currently conducting research in the field of [Field] and would be glad to discuss our work with you.

I would be happy to provide you with more information about our research and the opportunities available in our department. Please let me know if you would like to schedule a meeting or if you have any questions. I look forward to hearing from you again.

We stayed at Vicksburg three weeks, then were shipped to St. Louis, Jefferson Barracks; then I wrote my parents and my father came out after me. We stayed a week then went to the paroled camp Chase at Columbus. I got leave from the officer to stay with my father at the hotel and reported to camp the next morning. We went to a clothing store and took off my soldier uniform and put on civilian clothes, then took the train home.

Arrived at Alliance about nine o'clock. Got a horse and buggy and arrived home at ten o'clock. I met my mother and sister and three brothers. I will never forget that meeting when my mother put her arms around my neck and my only sister and we all wept. Then there was rejoicing.

I stayed at home until July 4, went to Cleveland to be mustered out with my regiment, then the officer told me I must be mustered out under general orders of the war department as a prisoner of war.

Sixteen thousand of our boys died, starved to death, at Andersonville, as high as 100 a day, when the "spring of providence" as it was called, broke out by the lightning, striking the ground inside of the stockade, gave us water to drink. Before that, we did not have any water only what came down from the cesspool and horse stables. One day the rebel commander's (Gen. Wirth) dog came into the stockade. We just caught him and ate him up. Many more experiences I could tell, but space does not permit it.

LINCOLN AND TRUTH

By inserting this sketch in our history we trust it will spur the on-coming generation to a nobler and happier life.

Of the many sterling traits which immortalize Lincoln, his love for truth transcends all other qualities. It became a passion with him, so holy, so marked, so consuming that it destroyed vice, controlled reason, sobered judgement, enthroned virtue, and enlarged the domain of love.

His analysis of a mooted question gathered up every fibre of evidence and tore them into shreds. He could see clear through and all around every principle. A condition he never made an issue. An issue he would never suffer to be a mere condition.

The only greatness in men that he could see was goodness. One had to be in the right before Lincoln could see elements worthy of applause. Even those in wrong he would not judge too harshly. The second inaugural address, the most superb public utterance that ever fell from his eloquent lips, deals ever so gently with the South. He would vindicate the union, and crush the rebellion, but motives he would not asperse. He would leave that to a higher judge than himself.

Lincoln's love for truth may explain his indisputable place in history. It explains his hold on men, and his grasp of public affairs. A man of greater ability, but with less regard for truth, would never have been the equal of Lincoln as chief magistrate in those Civil War days.

Under the inspiration of this able exemplar we can not go far astray if we emulate his life and principles. The prophecy of America is engraved on his saintly face which reflected with resplendent nobility the law of generosity which was written on his heart.

He shows how truth will conquer all adversaries, and eventually win the day. He also shows how ardor for the truth will develop and increase other strong qualities of character. Love for truth, he teaches us, will make a man patient. It will give him tact. It will completely banish all vindictiveness and revenge. And it will make a man an accurate judge of his fellows.

When Grant took Vicksburg, Lincoln commended him, saying, he thought at first that Grant's method was wrong, but that events proved that he himself was in error. His famous letter to Hooker, uniting commendation with deserved criticism is a masterpiece. Only a Lincoln would have said that he was willing to hold McClellan's horse, if that one would only win victories. But Lincoln's character is most luminous when he tells Meade to pursue Lee, after Gettysburg, adding, "If you win, destroy this order; if you lose, publish it, and I'll take all the blame."

When all is said and thought and done, and the scales of life weigh our output, it is truth that will reward us, and the lack of it that will condemn us. There is nothing else in life to live for. It out-tops all else. It will make of us noble men and women, in proportion to the love we have for truth.

Lincoln was truth itself. His life of truth, his ardor for it, his life-long battle in its behalf show us that truth is worth living and dying for, that it can be attained, that its victories are the best the world knows.

PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE

Oft we've met with friends departed;
 Many are meeting still,
 Some are gone but still remembered
 With the records they have filled.

How we miss their pleasant faces
 And their cheerful smiles,
 When we gather round the tables
 Where they once filled the isles.

Yes, we miss them sadly,
 But they've passed the river o'er,
 And we hope to meet them gladly
 On that happy golden shore.

Today we meet to celebrate,
 Again this annual occasion,
 With happy hearts to initiate
 Our present generation.

As we look upon the children here,
 We think of what there is to be,
 That they instead of us
 Must take their place in the family tree.

The children of yesterday have grown,
 And now are manning the ship,
 And carry on the work that has flown
 From our everlasting grip.
